Caffeine Naps: the ultimate alertness boost

Caffeine naps combine the benefits of sleep and caffeine, leaving you more alert and refreshed than either one alone.

How to do it:

20-30m

Have some caffeine, then immediately take a 20- to 30-minute power nap.

When you wake up, the caffeine will just be kicking in, adding its alertness boost to the benefits of the nap.

Other Benefits:

The nap helps clear the brain of adenosine, a drowsiness-inducing chemical.

The caffeine helps minimize post-nap grogginess, or sleep inertia.

A caffeine nap can help you get the same energy boost from a smaller cup.
