

Make Your Phone Less of a Slot Machine

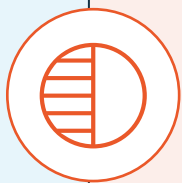

Your phone was designed to grab your attention: bright colors, red badges, buzzes, and pings. These are hooks, and they work. Here are three ways to remove them so your phone stops reaching out to you.

Hide the Candy

✓ Put your most distracting apps in folders, on the second or third page.

✓ When you want an app, use search instead – just as easy, but you’re less likely to open something on autopilot.

Grayscale Mode

✓ Switch your display to black and white. It deactivates the visual trigger of bright colors.

✓ Triple-click your side button to toggle back when you need color. (Google “iPhone grayscale” or “Android grayscale” to learn how.)

The Great Notification Purge

✓ Designate a purge day.

✓ Every time a notification comes in, ask: is this one I find helpful? If not, go into settings and turn it off on the spot. One or two days should do it.
